This workshop is an opportunity for couples to work together to unmask the hidden dynamics operating within their relationship.

Maria blends the Constellation approach with her extensive experience in Gestalt therapy.

Despite their greatest efforts many people are not able to either live their life fully or create harmonious relationships. They can experience powerful forces that thwart them in their lives. They can also feel as entangled within the dynamics of their relationships as if in a spider's web. These dynamics are like the wind. The wind is not visible but its presence is felt from the disturbance it leaves in its wake and its impact on our body and senses. Entanglements in relationship dynamics can result in difficulties and miscommunications between partners. They can also contribute to other difficulties such as addictions, illnesses and negative repetitive patterns in our lives.

In this workshop couples will have the opportunity to see their relationship from a different viewpoint, as well as recognising how each person's family entanglements play out within the relationship. Constellation work respectfully acknowledges history, therefore allowing space for something new.
